Dear Sir:

Your communication of March 13th addressed to the Editor of the American Journal of Numismatics has been held on my desk as I wished to make certain enquiries with regard to the collection of Singalese coins presented to the McGill University by Dr. Casey Wood.

This is an extremely interesting find, but I regret to say that it would be hardly suitable for printing in our publications in its present form. Before publishing various statements in this account, it would be necessary to verify them as we are inclined to question some of the tentative attributions. Also, we feel that any published statement of this find should have all of the varieties of the Larins described in detail. I am wondering if it would be possible at some future time to have this turned over to our Society for expert study, for it seems that there may be sufficient numismatic interest in this group to warrant a thorough scientific treatment of these Larins.

Very truly yours,

Curator
